

COMPLEMENT

Complements in English grammar are essential components that complete the meaning of a sentence. They provide additional information about the subject or object, enhancing our understanding of the main idea. Complements can take the form of nouns, pronouns, adjectives, and prepositional phrases.

Read more

Q1: Which of the following is an example of an adjectival complement?

- A: The cat chased the mouse.
 - B: She felt tired after the long day.
 - C: The students elected him class president.
 - D: I consider her a talented singer.
-

Q2: Which of the following is an example of a nominal complement?

- A: She became a doctor.
 - B: He painted the wall blue.
 - C: They elected her as president.
 - D: I enjoy swimming.
-

Q3: Which of the following is an example of a gerund complement?

- A: She enjoys singing.
 - B: They elected him president.
 - C: I want to eat.
 - D: The book is interesting.
-

Q4: Which of the following is an example of a direct object complement?

- A: She is a doctor.
 - B: They called her.
 - C: He seems tired.
 - D: We went to the park.
-

Q5: What type of complement is found in the sentence: 'The flowers smell fragrant'?

- A: Direct object complement
 - B: Subject complement
 - C: Object complement
 - D: Adverbial complement
-

Q6: Which of the following is an example of an infinitive complement?

- A: I enjoy swimming.
 - B: She became a lawyer.
 - C: They elected him president.
 - D: We went for a walk.
-

Q7: What type of complement is found in the sentence: 'The book is interesting'?

- A: Direct object complement
 - B: Subject complement
 - C: Object complement
 - D: Adverbial complement
-

Q8: Which of the following is an example of a subject complement?

- A: I saw a movie.
 - B: They called her.
 - C: He is a teacher.
 - D: She went to the store.
-

Q9: What type of complement is found in the sentence: 'She made him happy'?

- A: Direct object complement
 - B: Subject complement
 - C: Object complement
 - D: Adverbial complement
-

Q10: Which of the following is an example of an object complement?

- A: I enjoy cooking.
 - B: They painted the wall blue.
 - C: He seemed upset.
 - D: We walked in the park.
-

Answers

Q1: D - I consider her a talented singer.

Q2: A - She became a doctor.

Q3: A - She enjoys singing.

Q4: B - They called her.

Q5: B - Subject complement

Q6: A - I enjoy swimming.

Q7: B - Subject complement

Q8: C - He is a teacher.

Q9: C - Object complement

Q10: B - They painted the wall blue.